READING FOR COMPREHENSION

I remember when I was a child aged seven, I lived together with my family in Kasseré in northern ivory coast. In that small town, I found a particular soup cooked by the senoufo. Its name is the tchonron soup. It's made of bean leaves. It's particular because it's cooked without meat or fish. It's only made with prawn powder, salt and vegetables. Before cooking it, you must wash the leaves. Then you chop it cut it with a knife. After that, you cook the cooking pot on fire. First, you put the leaves in the cooking pot. second, you add salt. Afterwards, you let boil for ten minutes. Third, you add the prawn powder and you let boil again for twenty minutes. Later, you pour the groundnut powder inside and you stir it. Finally, the soup is ready. When you taste it, you can cut your fingers because it's delicious. I ate that soup in kassieré and I can never forget it. My mum brought the recipe from Kassieré for her sisters. Everybody liked it
